Every-State Campaign Launched By Nixon

(Continued from Page One) Communism, let us say that his grandchildren will live in freedom," Nixon said. His speech came in a story about Lincoln being asked if he believed God was on his side during the Civil War. "My concern is not whether God is on our side but whether we are on God's side," he quoted Lincoln. The delegates stood and cheered. He said the Democrats had "promised everything to everybody with one exception, they didn't promise to pay the bill." "We are not going to make promises we cannot and should not keep and we are not going to try to buy the people's votes with their own money," he said. But Nixon did make some promises of his own: For older citizens, health protection and more opportunity for a productive life; for the young, the best basic education and a full opportunity to develop intellectually, whatever their economic circumstances; for labor, higher wages and more protection against unemployment; for minorities, "the greatest progress in human rights" since Abraham Lincoln, and for farmers, "a fair share of America's ever-increasing prosperity."

Nominees Due To Clash In Television Debate

NEW YORK (AP) — An unprecedented face-to-face television debate series appears likely between the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees. At Hyannis Port, Mass., yesterday, Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, quickly accepted an invitation from Robert W. Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co., to appear in a "great debate" on the air. In Chicago Vice President Richard M. Nixon's press secretary said he assumed arrangements would be worked out for such debates. Herbert G. Klein said Sarnoff's wife had not yet replied. The Columbia Broadcasting system and the American Broadcasting Co. also expressed readiness to offer peak air time for such debates, but said federal regulations are an obstacle. CBS news president Sig Mickelson said Section 315 of the Communications Act must be amended so as not to require equal time for splinter party opponents. The U. S. Senate has approved such a change. Similar action is pending in the House. Leonard H. Goldenson, president of American Broadcasting-Paramount Theaters, Inc., sent telegrams to Nixon and Kennedy outlining a proposal for the three networks to alternate in giving their prime time each week for four weeks. He said the plan is predicated on a waiver by Congress of section 315. Sarnoff told the candidates by telegram that the aim was to devote four programs, each an hour long, to joint discussion of the issues. Sarnoff added that four other programs of an hour each would be scheduled for questioning of candidates by journalistic panels. In his telegram to Sarnoff, Kennedy said: "I wholeheartedly accept your invitation to meet on television with Vice President Nixon during the coming campaign."

No Invitation, They Didn't Get Through

CHICAGO — AP — Newsmen were not the only ones chasing rumors in this convention city and they weren't the only ones to face a burly officer who said "you can't go through." It happened to two top leaders of the New Jersey delegation who went home with slightly ruffled feelings. One of them got shoved around. Carl Erdman, state chairman and head of the delegation, and Webster B. Todd Jr., treasurer of the New Jersey finance committee, heard late Wednesday night that Vice President Richard M. Nixon was meeting with state chairmen to consult on the vice presidency. Erdman and Todd felt that as spokesmen for the state's delegates they should be in on the conference. They went to Nixon's headquarters at the Blackstone Hotel. But the police officers on duty had orders to admit only those invited and the high rank of the Jersey visitors did not impress them. Todd's efforts to get into the meeting met with a bit of pushing. When Bernard M. Shanley, national committee man and a close friend of Nixon's heard about the incident, he did his best to mollify both men. It was explained to Erdman and Todd that not all state chairmen were invited. Only a small group of national leaders. Having cooled off 24 hours later, the two Jerseys indicated they understood. They'll vote the straight Republican ticket.

Ousted Mayor Sues 4 Other Commissioners

CAMDEN (AP) — Mayor Alfred Pierce filed suit yesterday in Superior Court to regain his post as director of public safety. Pierce, ousted from the post by the other four city commissioners June 9, charged that they acted illegally. Defendants are commissioner Edward Garrity, now public safety director, and commissioners Frank Italiano, Frank Abbott and William Shepp. Pierce was ousted by his fellow commissioners in the culmination of State Police raids on gambling establishments in the city. Pierce asked State Police to conduct the raids and charged widespread links between gamblers and city police. A grand jury subsequently indicted several police and later criticized Pierce for "suppressing evidence" favorable to former Police Chief Gustave Koerner, among those it indicted. Pierce denied this allegation, the stated basis for his ouster as public safety director. Our committee will formulate a vigorous program of registration that will reach into every CIO local union throughout the state," Jacobson said.

Lodge Ready To Give All In Campaign

CHICAGO (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, a blueblooded diplomat from Boston, took his place beside Richard M. Nixon today in the fight he kept Republican at the nation's helm. Nominated without opposition last night as the GOP vice-presidential candidate, Lodge pledged to "expend every ounce of energy" to help the Republicans to victory. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, had picked Lodge as his running mate after a conference with party leaders. "The latest word from Lodge was that he planned to resign his U.S. post next month, although White House press secretary James Hagerty said yesterday he saw no need for such action. Lodge was presented to the final session of the Republican National Convention as a man who has been "tested and proved in the fires of today's world." In accepting the vice-presidential nomination, he said the "life and death struggle" between the Communists and the free world gives this year's election "its compelling, overwhelming importance to us and the free world." "No one, he said, is so well fitted as Nixon to represent this country "in the turmoil of world politics." In the platform adopted by the convention, he said, the Republicans have the program the country needs. Lodge, 58, placed in nomination by Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota, the convention keynoter, who was favored by many Midwesterners for Nixon's running mate. Judd emphasized Lodge's role as the U.S. ambassador to the U.N. in answering Soviet attacks on this country and said that Lodge has done as much as anyone, except President Eisenhower, in winning the confidence of other peoples of the world. In 1952 it was Lodge who managed Eisenhower's successful campaign to win the GOP presidential nomination from the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. In the same year Lodge lost his seat in the U.S. Senate to John F. Kennedy, now the Democratic candidate for president.

Jersey

(Continued from Page One) In addition to the ticket gives it important strength. Bergen Senator Walter Jones was of this view. So was Joseph Pierson, Mercer County Republican chairman. Jones said he had favored drafting New York Governor Rockefeller for the No. 2 spot. Rockefeller repeatedly turned down such a suggestion. It was doubtful he would have refused, said Jones. had the demand been backed up by an actual nomination. The election next year of a new governor, with legislative control also at stake among Republicans for a victory this year. With the Democrats already at work, a long, tough campaign looms. The disposition of departing delegates was to agree with Nixon that it will be a close race with events on the world scene during the next few months being a factor in the outcome. New Jersey shared the spotlight of the evening as Mrs. Katherine Neuberger, president of the New Jersey Federation of Republican Women, was among those who seconded Ambassador Lodge's nomination. She built her remarks around the qualifications he brings to "the struggle for men's minds in the cold war battle." State Senator Frank Farley, acting chairman of the delegation, called New Jersey's 36 votes "enthusiastically" for Lodge when the roll was called. Senator Jones gave another cocktail party, his third of the week, just prior to the convention closing. He was asked by one delegate if he was staying for the weekend. He said he was getting out of town — and fast! Farley commended the delegates for their "orderly conduct and arduous labors" and said New Jersey would back fully the "effective and concrete program" put forth by Nixon and Lodge. He predicted they would carry the state. Of Lodge, Farley said: "Lodge's experience and background would add strength to the ticket. He has handled himself well in the United Nations."

Shoot U.S. Allies, Call By Guevara

HAVANA (UP) — Ernesto (Che) Guevara, Marxist-oriented economic chief of revolutionary Cuba, today urged all Latin governments to begin sending supporters of dictatorships "to the wall." He stated those friendly to the United States should be "first on the list." "Let it not again be repeated that we belong to a continental alliance with our great enslaver," Guevara declared. "That is the biggest and most revolting lie that can be uttered by any government official in Latin America." The Argentine-born revolutionary spoke as Defense Minister Raul Castro sped back toward Cuba from an abbreviated Cairo visit, intensifying speculation that his older brother Fidel is seriously ill. Guevara, believed to wield power second only to Castro brothers, was himself filling in for the premier at the opening of a pro-Communist Latin American youth congress when he issued his call for the firing squad liquidation of traitors along the pattern set by Cuba. In Cuba, "to the wall" is the call for firing squad executions. Premier Fidel Castro, who often has mentioned Raul as his chosen successor, suffered what officially was described as a mild case of pneumonia earlier this month.

Traffic Toll Shows Drop

CHICAGO (UP) — Highway accidents during the first six months of 1960 killed 10 fewer persons than during the same period last year — out of a total of more than 17,000, the national safety council has reported. The death rate (fatalities per 100 miles of travel) set a record low for January-June, dropping from 5.1 in 1959 to 5.0 in 1960 despite a 3 percent rise in highway travel. In figures released yesterday, the council said 17,000 persons died in traffic between January and June 1960. The 1959 January-June total was 17,100. By comparison, totals were 16,315 in 1958 and 17,948 in 1956. The year's total in 1959 was 37,000.

Commission Rule Called A Failure In Jersey City

JERSEY CITY — AP — A charter study commission today recommended that Jersey City abandon its 47-year-old city commission form of government and adopt a mayor-council system. The report said a nine-month survey showed the commission system — under which five commissioners divide the functions of municipal government — had failed to solve the problems of taxes and urban renewal. The report went on to say that the commissioners, elected on a city-wide basis provided inadequate internal administration and had blurred the city's public image. There was some disappointment that a New Jersey Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell of Little Springs, didn't get the No. 2 spot. But Mitchell's biggest booster in the state, State Senator Charles W. Sandman Jr. of Cape May, called the selection of Lodge a "wise choice."

Bridge Plea Rejected

(Continued from Page One) came, the Trenton officials left empty-handed. Later the commissioners were told that it is "still too early" to tell how effective the toll reduction is in attracting traffic from the free bridges to the toll span. While there has been no marked decrease in Calhoun Street Bridge traffic, there has been a 35 percent boost in commuter traffic on the pay span. The answer may be that traffic from the Lower Trenton Bridge — where there is no bottleneck — may be shifting to the pay bridge. In other business, Kingston Trap Rock Industries was turned down in an effort to get permission to use the unopened but completed Scudders Falls Bridge to truck concrete to the Pennsylvania approach. In April the commissioners permitted George Brewer & Sons, approach contractors, to truck fill across the bridge. But only under "severe" restrictions such as laying a "carpet of sand" on the span. Then it was the turn of Chief Commission Engineer Edwin W. Demzler Jr. who in quiet understatement noted these results of his surveys: 1. The problem is not the Calhoun Street Bridge at all. Rather it is the intersections in Morrisville on East Trenton Avenue that cause the daily bottlenecks. "Given a chance to move, the traffic would not overburden the bridge," said Demzler. 2. Any new bridge would have to be four-lane and that would mean "considerable property damage" in Morrisville for the necessary widening of East Trenton Avenue. 3. In the future traffic will decrease on the three Trenton-Morrisville bridges because many motorists will bypass Trenton via the Scudders Falls Bridge which is to ultimately hook into an approach road to Bakers Basin on Route 1 in Lawrence Township. 4. A four-lane toll bridge to replace the free Calhoun Street Bridge would hurt revenues at the Trenton-Morrisville Toll Bridge. It might open the commission to legal action by toll bridge bond holders who could charge their investment was endangered. 5. Closing Delmore Avenue in Morrisville — a remedy suggested to alleviate one key bottleneck — would only transfer the bottleneck problem to Pennsylvania Avenue. Connolly rose again and reminded the commissioners that Trenton needed $150,000 worth of land to the State Highway Department for the widening of Calhoun and West State Streets. And further that the city has just purchased the Corner House for more than $40,000. "We have a considerable investment at that intersection," said Connolly. Then came this question from Vice Chairman David J. Goldberg: "Do you have any studies which would show that a new bridge would alleviate the traffic problem?" Connolly said he thought Trenton Traffic Engineer Otto Ortleib might have "some figures." There is a need for a new bridge, persisted Connolly who added he thinks the State Highway Department should redesign the approaches to the bridge. Ninety — minutes after they

Jersey Group Charts Drive For Kennedy

SPRING LAKE — AP — Top New Jersey Democratic Party leaders emerged from a closed strategy session yesterday to predict a hard-driving campaign that would win New Jersey for their presidential nominee, Senator John F. Kennedy. "We are completely united on the idea that we have a winning ticket in November," Governor Robert B. Meyner said. Meyner said New Jersey party leaders met Tuesday night with other political leaders from the East. Robert Kennedy, the candidate's brother and campaign manager, will coordinate their strategy. Robert Kennedy, mending fences in New York, met earlier with Robert Burkhart, executive director of the New Jersey State Democratic Committee. Burkhart, on hand for the meeting with Meyner, declined to say whether he had been offered a post in the Kennedy setup outside New Jersey. David T. Wilentz, Democratic national committee man, said he expected an announcement from Kennedy on Burkhart's behalf within a week. Meyner, referring to his side who came out early for Kennedy, said: "Bob has rendered a real service and we'd like for him to continue here."

Attends World Teacher Parley

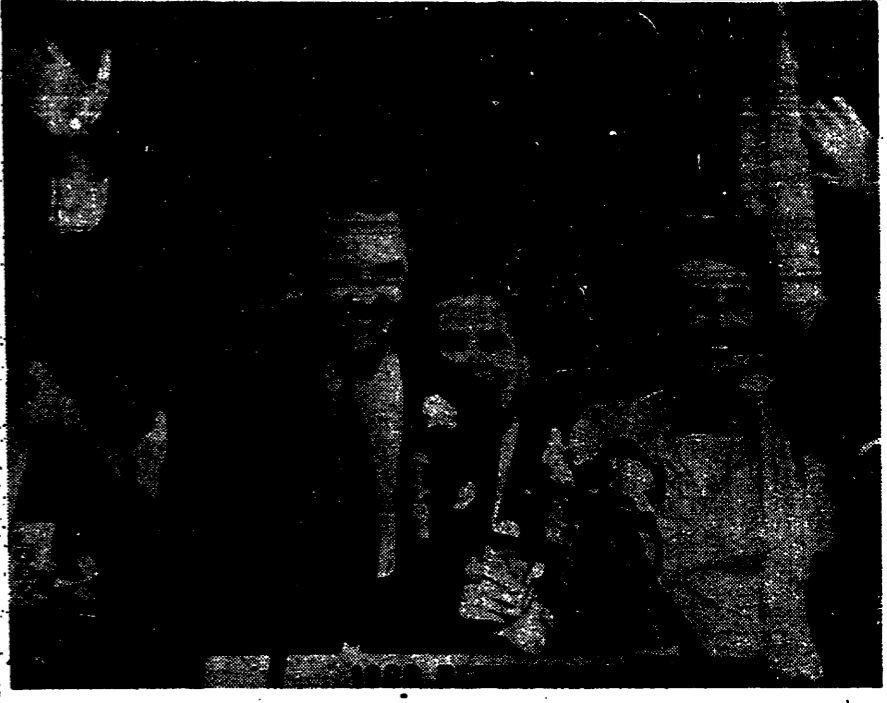

Dr. Frederick L. Hipp, executive secretary of the New Jersey Education Association, left by plane today for Amsterdam, Holland, to attend the meeting of the World Confederation of the Organizations of the Teaching Profession. He will be the delegate at that convention for the National Education Association and will also represent the New Jersey Education Association. The World Confederation of the Organizations of the Teaching Profession was founded in Copenhagen in 1952, to represent teachers organizations all over the world. Since then it has held annual meetings in England, Norway, Turkey, the Philippines, Germany, Italy and the United States. Sir Ronald Gould of England is president. Dr. Hipp lives at 8 Burning Tree Lane, University Park, Lawrence Township. He has been the executive officer for the professional organization of New Jersey's 45,000 public school teachers since 1946.

Small Firms

(Continued from Page One) small businesses from growing into big businesses. "It is expected that many of our applicants will be referred to us from banking institutions when sound normal bank loan conditions, or have exhausted their normal bank credit." Swern cited the example of a group of technicians, who had developed a new, worthwhile device, but could not expand their business beyond their personal credit at banks. "We would assign appropriate specialists to study the application," Swern explained, "and if they were impressed by the product potential and the soundness of the management, we would arrange the needed financing." With Swern as directors are Maurice W. Heimritz, vice president of Gould - National Batteries Inc., as company vice president; M. George Coleman, Trenton CPA, as secretary; Vaughan S. Grundy, chairman of the Industrial Engineering Works Inc., as treasurer. Also, Mrs. Mary G. Roehling, chairman - president of the Trenton Trust Company; William C. Ehret Sr., Trenton builder; George Brauning, president of Brauning News Company; Leon Levy, Trenton lawyer; Henry S. Bamford, electronics consultant and R. Charles Jester Jr., president and general manager of All-states Design and Development Company. Swern said this group was brought together to assure representation of broadly diversified interests and "the finest type of counseling and service to applicants." He added that success of such companies in other states "stimulated an unprecedented level of investor interest." Banks, he said, welcomed them as a compliment to their services and also as an investment medium. Lending will be provided either through debentures convertible into common stock or through five to 20-year capital loans.

City Taxes Due

Samuel B. Scott, city receiver of taxes, reminded taxpayers today that real estate and personal taxes are due August 1. He said interest charges will be added on payments post-marked after that date.
