FINDS WIFE IN ROOM WITH ANOTHER MAN

Detective Who Accompanies Woman's Husband Calmly Awaits Couple After Threat Is Made

When Detective Frank H. Miller went to a closed room in a hotel in Camden early yesterday, a man's voice exclaimed:

"You burst in that door and I'll fill you full of lead."

Miller, who was accompanied by Edward Langley, a Somerdale, N. J., machinist, did not break in the door, but subsequently Frederick Dodd, a plasterer, aged 37 years, of 581 Line street, and Mrs. Catharine Langley, wife of the sleuth's companion, emerged. Both were placed under arrest. At a subsequent hearing before Recorder Stackhouse they were committed to jail in default of $500 bail on a misdemeanor charge preferred by Langley.

As the woman was being led to the detention room she walked up to her husband and said:

"I am going to make a charge against you," and she was led away after considerable difficulty.

CAMDEN WILL HEAR VICE PRESIDENT MARSHALL

Next Sunday Vice President Marshall is scheduled to be the orator at the annual memorial service to be held by Camden Lodge of Moose. He is a member of Indianapolis Lodge and is deeply interested in Mooseheart, the order's community, where much is expected in an educational way.

He will be one of several attractions, which will include music and an address by Rev. Dr. Holmes Gravatt, one of the most eloquent members of the New Jersey M. E. Conference.

Betrayed by Letter to Girl

Alleged to have been betrayed by the girl for whom he left his wife and children in Schenectady, N. Y., Wadyslaw Okowosky, aged 24 years, was located and arrested in a house on Diamond street, Camden, by Detective Brothers and Policeman Climes yesterday. He was held pending action on the part of the New York authorities, who accuse the man of abandonment. He is said to have written to a girl in Schenectady, to go to Camden to live with him as his wife. By that means his whereabouts were learned.

CAMDEN AT A GLANCE

Members of St. John's P. E. Church learned yesterday that their pastor, Rev. Charles L. Cooder, had resigned. He will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday, May 10. It is his intention to do special work in the diocese. He has been rector of the Camden church since October, 1912.

Suffering from acute alcoholism, Joseph Diaro, aged 12 years, of 928 Locust street, was taken to Cooper Hospital in Camden yesterday. He will recover. Before he lapsed into unconsciousness he said a tinker had given him a bottle of whisky.

Vice Chancellor Learning yesterday advised a decree giving to Mrs. Mary Ziesel a valuable property at Wildwood which her husband, Dr. William Ziesel, a Philadelphia dentist, sought.

In a small fire in the rear of the home of Mrs. Rose Miller, 920 Locust street, two box alarms and a local call were sent in yesterday, with the result the street was in an uproar. Persons in the row of houses threw out their belongings and for a time the police had their hands full in caring for the hysterical women.

The Atco Board of Trade was incorporated yesterday. The officers are: President, Joseph Gondolfe; vice president, J. H. Winter; secretary, D. DeBuys; treasurer, L. L. Grauger.
