

SECOND ATTEMPT TO END HIS LIFE FAILS

Disappointed Husband Tries to Choke Himself With Handkerchief
After Being Placed in Cell

Committed to jail by Recorder Stackhouse for-trying to end his life on Sunday last by shooting himself in the head, Louis Asseline, a jockey, aged 22 years, of 364 West Thirty-sixth street, New York, tied a handkerchief about his neck with the intention of choking himself to death shortly after being placed in a cell yesterday. His act was witnessed by Policeman Kates, who summoned Sergeant Reed and the desperate young man was relieved of his improvised garrote.

Asseline told the Recorder at the hearing that he was dependant because his wife refused to return home with him. He had visited her at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Barry, Locust and Mechanic streets. The formal charge of attempted suicide was made by Police Captain James on information received.

TAKEN FROM WIFE'S SIDE, CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

Taken from the side of his wife and child, Edward Powell, aged 23 years, of 523 South Fifth street, Camden, was arrested by Detective Brothers and Constable Buckwalter on a charge of bigamy and taken to Toms River, N. J., where Mrs. Mary Gowdrick entered complaint before Justice Wright in behalf of her daughter, Agnes.

Powell admitted that he had married the young woman with the full knowledge that he was already legally married to another.

Camp Meeting Closes Today

Special to The Inquirer.

PITMAN, N. J., Aug. 4.—Worshippers were not too busy packing up today to enjoy three spirited sermons in the last full day of camp-meeting services in the auditorium. The final sermon will be delivered tomorrow morning by Rev. George T. Harris, of Glassboro, and will be followed by the formal closing exercises in the afternoon and a great service of song at night. Speakers today included Rev. Lawrenson Correll, of Millville; Rev. George H. Bickley and Rev. Isaac Ward.

CAMDEN AT A GLANCE

Within the past couple of days County Clerk Patterson's office in Camden has been besieged with foreigners who are anxious to declare their intentions of becoming American citizens. At least a hundred have thus applied and all express themselves as desirous of averting the possibility of being called by their native governments. All the great powers were represented in the applicants.

A silver pitcher, a family heirloom, was stolen yesterday from the home of William Wilson, 617 South Fourth street.

Alleging that because of the negligence of employes of the Public Service Railway Company she was knocked down and trampled upon, resulting in serious injuries, Mrs. Irdja Jackson yesterday began suit to recover $15,000. The accident occurred March 29 at the Pennsylvania Railroad terminal.
