

CAMDEN AT A GLANCE

When Joseph Durno was arraigned before the Recorder yesterday he insisted he was in Riverside, and not Camden. He was sentenced to assist in cleaning out the city jail until he found his bearings.

Judge Boyle held a special session of the Criminal Court yesterday, at which a number of defendants in petty cases entered pleas. The new grand jury will make its first presentment today.

Passing Turner Hall, Pine street below Broadway, Policeman Kleaver found a small bundle yesterday morning. On opening it he found the body of a new born male infant. Coroner Bentley sent the body to the Morgue and Detective Brothers is investigating.

Judge Boyle yesterday made an order allowing $5 a week for thirty weeks to John Brebler, aged 14 years, who entered suit under the Employers' Liability Act against James M. Bentley, a printer. The lad had his hand injured in a press.

Plans are under way by officers of the Third Regiment, N. G. N. J., to organize a mounted scout detachment in conformity with the new regulation prescribed by the War Department.