

CAMDEN COP'S FIRST - NIGHT ON THE FORGE

Given an Ovation and Squire Headed a Crowd That Thought Murder Had Been Committed

Philip Knauf, appointed a policeman by Mayor Ellis, in Camden, yesterday, will not likely 'forget' his appearance as an officer. Incidentally South Camden will also remember the incident. When Knauf went to make his first "pull" at 7 o'clock last night he was escorted to the box by a score of brother officers. Before he reached the box at Broadway and Spruce streets he was presented with a big bouquet by Adam T. Davis. He had only proceeded a square when George Horneff saluted him with a revolver shot and fireworks.

Just about this time 'Squire Charles Baldwin' appeared with a crowd, who thought someone had been murdered. The doughty 'squire was armed, and the new officer was lost in the rapidly increasing 'crowd' before matters were explained.
